HOMECOMING FOR OMAHA GRADS WILL FEATURE DOWNTOWN PARADE

Annual Game With Peru Is Scheduled

Student Council and Faculty Committee Have All
Plans Ready.

SOPHS WILL GIVE DANCE

Friday, November 23, is the official Homecoming Day for the alumni of the University of Omaha. Mr. I. A. Hammer, chairman of the faculty committee, has announced the program at the early date; so that all alumni will be timely informed of this affair which is to be held in their honor. The student Council has announced that they have nearly completed the plans for the event, which promises to be one of the biggest at the university this year.

Bonfire Planned

The first date is November 22; the place, in front of the gym; the time, 8 o'clock. The purpose will be to hold a bonfire, a pep meeting and a torch-light parade. The torch-lights may be colored flares, but just the same there will be a parade. About one thousand students, faculty, alumni and friends are expected by the Pep squad that has charge of the evening's events. At 9 o'clock, the alumni will hold a business meeting in the Conservatory. Mr. A. S. Thomsen will preside. President E. W. Emery and members of the alumni will speak.

University Night at An Omaha Theater

Miss Gladys Mann Sings—Cheer
Leaders Give Yells—Band Plays.

University of Omaha Night was observed at the World theater last Thursday. The university band and cheer leaders presented a "pep assembly" in short front curtain act before the main vaudeville. Miss Gladys Mann sang the university song accompanied by the band and cheer leaders.

Yells Given

The program began at nine o'clock. The curtain went up and displayed the U. of O. band clad in white skirts or trousers and cardinal capes. Miss Evelyn McDonald lead the band attired in her drum major's outfit. The first selection played was "Line Up". The second was "Handy Trombone" in which Richard Chval played an effective trombone solo. Then the yell leaders clad in their natty white costumes, rushed on the stage and lead the band in cheers for the team. A few members of the audience caught the spirit of the program and joined in the yells to "Beat Dana!"

Miss Mann, who is one of the contestants in a song contest being held by the World theater, then sang the U. of O. song accompanied by the band. The act was well received by the audience.

Miss Mann then went on with her regular part to the program, which consisted of singing "Rose of Picardy" and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling". Her costume which was in harmony with her auburn hair made the act very attractive. Dames Mollie, an alumnae of the U. of O. is also in the contest and now has ninth place.

40 Pieces

The band consisted of 40 pieces and played well. Miss McDonald was complimented by the stage crew on the smoothness with which she presented the program.

HOMECOMING TAG DAY

Look to your laurels, sororities Nov. 19 and 20 are tag days, and you are expected to do your bit. The purpose of selling the tags will be to gain funds for the barbecue dinner which will be given for the alumni on Homecoming Night. Everyone should wear a tag, and freshmen are expected to wear two.

According to the barbecue committee, a mere beef sandwich would not cost very much, but the dinner which is promised will cost a great deal. That is why Nov. 19 and 20 are to be tag days at the University of Omaha.

College Heads Meet Insurance Managers

Life Insurance Curriculum Made and Committee Is Appointed

Last Tuesday, Dr. Emery and Dean Dunlap attended a meeting of the executive committee of the Life Insurance Managers of Omaha. At this meeting, the final and definite plans were laid for the life insurance curriculum. A definite committee was appointed to cooperate with the life insurance men of the city. The instructors will be selected from those men in the city.

Friday, a meeting of the Fire and Casualty Insurance men of the city was held at the Chamber of Commerce. Here similar plans were made for this division.

So far, about a dozen unsolicited applications have been received for the school but when the advertising manager begins work, it is expected that there will be a veritable deluge of applications. The course will probably be nine weeks long. The degree of Chartered Life Underwriter, which is awarded only upon examination, and after compliance with definite requirements, will be the one toward which the students will strive.

Friday Convocation Features Bennie Huff

At the Friday Convocation, the singing was lead by Professor Logan. Dean James had charge of the devotions.

Bennie Huff, star quarterback, gave a short speech. It was Bennie's first appearance in a chapel program and is he bashful?

Coach Hubka expressed his opinion about the Dana game and urged the team not to be over-confident. Mr. Dunlap told the plans the College of Commerce had made to attend the game at Blair. Everyone was urged to go if possible.

The yell leaders led the students and faculty in yells and songs. Everyone showed a high sense of school spirit and enthusiasm for the coming game.

Assembly Features Captain Wardall

Noted Traveler and Lecturer Gives Talk to Uni Students.

"The mind grows upon that which feeds it," said Captain Max Wardall, noted traveler and lecturer, in assembly, Wednesday, November 7. Captain Wardall's subject was "The Value of an Ideal."

War Nasty

"War is the nastiest thing imaginable," he emphasized. "If we do not destroy it, war will destroy us. By preparing for war, we make it. The next war will be against civilization itself. To prevent another war, develop character in the schools."

Captain Wardall pointed out that each individual must develop an ideal in life. "A life without ideals is a desert," he said. "All people are aspiring for happiness, and ideals are made up of the things that we admire. Everyone is a latent product of aspiration," the speaker continued.

Captain Wardall used the artist whose portrait of the perfect man was taken bit by bit from various sources, and the pilot who could guide his plane through fog by instinct as examples. To show the danger of negative thoughts, he told of a young man who was cured of lying by resolving to be truthful.

"Take your fault out, and see how disgusting it is; then, forget it, and concentrate on the virtue," the speaker advised. "Faith and conviction give strength and dignity to the soul. Man is a child of God and is the only animal who desires the truth. He is intended to know everything."

Graduate of Washington Captain Wardall speaks from wide experience, being a graduate of the University of Washington. He has traveled around the world three times. He was an overseas intelligence officer during the World War. At one time Captain Wardall was the acting mayor of Seattle. At present he is the head of the International Order of Service.

Hello, Alumnus!

Peter-Pan Club Elects Its Officers

The Peter Pan Club, an organization of the girls taking Normal Kindergarten Training, held their meeting last Thursday at 8:15 in the Kindergarten room at Science Hall. Jeanne Fee was temporary chairman. The following officers were elected, Jeanne Fee; Vice-President, Ruth Paxson; Secretary-Treasurer, Jean Ingersoll. The girls in a socialized discussion formulated definite aims for the year. They decided to include all the normal training girls in the club.

Elaine Smith played a piano solo. Mrs. Stevens, dean of women, was the main speaker. She spoke about the name, Peter Pan, saying that it creates a subject for imagination. She said, "Education is not a tool to get when you are young for future use, but is progressive development all through life." She told the girls to remember: (1) that society gives a child opportunity for growth, (2) that a child learns by living, (3) that a child has confidence in fundamental goodness of teacher, and (4) that life is mental energy seeking man. The girls should be living, joyous, sympathetic and understanding.

Delicious popcorn balls and apples were served. The committee in charge was: Dorothy Wells, Miss Berg, Ruth Montgomery, Jeanne Fee, and Mildred Eastick.

"Y" Finance Drive Launched Today

University Students Asked to Pledge Funds for Y Work

With the opening of its Finance Drive today the purpose of the "Y" organizations on the campus is brought before the school. "What," the average student might ask, "is the good of these organizations?"

Turn back to the first of the year when members of the organizations presented themselves to the president and said that they wanted to do what they could to advance the University of Omaha. These students formed a nucleus for a steering committee which during registration week were a great help to many students.

It was very early in the year that plans were laid for a "Y" Den. That den is established, and is rapidly becoming popular. It has already shown its value as a meeting place, and as a reading room.

The annual mixer held by the organizations was the greatest success in many years, and started the social activities of the Y's with a bang. Color Day was also a great success, and is planned as an annual affair. The Gateway co-operated with the Y's by printing the weekly on red paper in order to advertise the day.

The Fall Stag Party was enthusiastically received, and others are being planned. Besides all of these activities, the Y's plan interesting weekly meetings, for which some of the best speakers in the city are engaged.

So the good of these organizations is presented before the students, and it is hoped that all students will display the same spirit in giving as they have in receiving. Help the Y's!

Fine Prospects in Debate Candidates

The candidates for the debate squad met last Thursday at the Night Law School. There were eight first year men, with but half as many active members of Sigma Pi.

Coach F. K. Guilfoil explained how the squad system was carried out, and why he favored that system rather than elimination or try-out system. The first practice debate is scheduled for Nov. 21, the time and place to be announced later.

Helene Geburh was appointed librarian for the Law School, and she will have charge of the debating material loaned to that school. A social get-together is to be had sometime toward the last of the month, the time and place to be announced at a future meeting.

Coach Guilfoil urged everyone to start to work immediately on the question which is "Resolved that the present jury system in the United States should be abolished."

FRANK SEIDL IS CON- DUCTOR OF ORCHESTRA

The second orchestra rehearsal was held in the Conservatory last Wednesday night at 7 o'clock. New members were present and were very enthusiastic over the prospects for a tour. Plans are being made for the orchestra to tour with the choir some time Christmas.

The orchestra is under the leadership of Frank Seidl, one of the best music conductors in Omaha. Professor H. J. Legan declares that he knows of at least thirty musicians in the university who should be attending orchestra rehearsal. Fourteen members were present at the last rehearsal. The next practice will be in the Conservatory tonight at 7 o'clock.

SPRINGS SURPRISE THIS YEAR BY PRESENTING A NEW STRONG TEAM

Over-confidence Is Handicap to Omaha

Roberts and Matthews Are the Outstanding Stars of the Game.

KEARNEY, PERU, O.U. TIED

Bucking the greatest enemy of football which is over-confidence, the University of Omaha football team pushed Dana college away from victory last Saturday afternoon at Blair by the score of 20 to 0.

Starting out the game true to last year's form, the Omaha University cardinal team was held to only one score in the initial period of the Dana game. True they won the game 20 to 0, but the score should have been double that and more. Listless football, over-confidence, and lack of team spirit were evident throughout the first half, but the team came back strong in the last half to put the game on ice.

Roberts Stars

The outstanding star of the game was Wingman Roberts, who seemed to be at all points when he was needed, snagging passes and in every way helping to better the score. His first high light of the game came shortly after the start of the second quarter when he circled the Dana backfield, caught a twenty-yard pass, and raced fifteen more yards to put the ball on Dana's five yard line. It only remained for Bolen to plunge

Pre-Meds. Lectured On Child Hygiene

Science Hall Talks From Dr.
McCleman Are Very Interesting.

Aspiring pre-medical student this year are being fortunate enough to hear of lectures on Public Hygiene and children's diseases. The third of this series of lectures, by Dr. McCleman, was delivered Thursday morning at the University of Omaha Science Hall. The lecture on various diseases proved to be very interesting. The next talk November 22, also, promises to be well worth while.

Because of a meeting of the Nebraska Medical Society, Dr. McCleman was unable to lecture last week.

The Pre-Medical Club is now entering into its second year of work under the leadership of Walker Thompson. The other officers are Vice-President Warren Hinze and Secy-Treas. Arthur Greene. The club is sponsored by Miss Nell Ward and Mr. Cecil Simmons.

F. K. Guilfoil Reads Short Story

Last week's U. of O. radio hour was of interest to everyone, for there is scarcely a person who does not at some time or other cherish the ambition of being an author. It is a common thing to hear some one say, after reading a story, "Why, I could write a story as good as that!"

This period of broadcasting was started with a talk by Mr. F. K. Guilfoil, who told of the short story which is being offered by the University of Omaha. This was the beginning of this year. It was received by many, and was by the reading of the short story, "The Man in the Mirror."

These radio hours are now being given by Mr. F. K. Guilfoil, sponsored by the University of Omaha.

ALUMNI, WE WELCOME YOU

The University of Omaha greets its alumni who will return to their old campus Homecoming Week, Nov. 23rd, has been designated as official Homecoming Day, but the U. of O. faculty and student body will welcome any of its former students during the entire week. We of the present university are here to give you alums a rousing good time and to show you the change that have taken place here.

We ask you to visit the new Music Conservatory and the three studios on the third floor of Joslyn Hall. See there, also, the unusual exhibits of our Art Department. The Administration Offices have been rebuilt and enlarged since you alumni were here, and Science Hall on Twenty-Fourth and Ames is a new addition to our university for most of you. The gym is the same old gym in Jacobs Hall, but the Y. M. C. A. Den is a new room on the second floor of the same building. The Gateway office, too, is different than you have ever seen it before. Then, of course, you will all want to eat in our new cafeteria in the basement of Joslyn Hall. While you are down there take a look at our larger Book Store, the Y. W. C. A. Room, and the office of the Dean of Women. The Magazine Room of the university Library is also an addition there.

You want to meet the new faculty members, alums; they want to know the old students. You want to renew friendships; old friends will be here to see you. We hope that all of you alumni of the U. of O. will get out to our campus—to your campus—and see how things are progressing, changing, and growing, at the University of Omaha.

The self-confident man who fails is dubbed "conceited", while the one who succeeds is dubbed "wise."

The next President of the United States will not be a lawyer. All but eight of the past presidents have been lawyers, and until Harding, the presidents elected had been either lawyers or soldiers. In 1920, the opposing candidates, both Harding and Cox, were newspaper men.

WHERE WERE YOU—YOU OTHER 180?

There are many definitions of school spirit; there are many ways in which to exhibit that school spirit. Loyalty to whatever your university sponsors may be called School Spirit, may it not?

At the recent Athletic Board election one hundred fifty-three students of the College of Liberal Arts voted. Practically half of the active student body of that college did not turn out to vote.

What's the matter, students! Aren't you interested in the activities of your university? Don't you consider yourself one little cog in this great machine? Won't you forget yourselves and think of your university for even a single day?

Where is that School Spirit?

Football candidates might get some practice in open field dodging, before taking the swerving groups of pedestrians that come together at Sixteenth and Farnam Streets.

ALUMNI, WE WELCOME YOU

That—You would and The Gateway were news. Please! What are you these days and what are you doing?

Your old Alma Mater wants to know about you. Thanks.

Who's Who at the U. of O.

MARIANO MIGUELEZ MAYA
Instructor in Spanish

Señor Mariano Miguelez Maya, is well known about the campus for his ready smile and willingness to help. He has a most colorful background, which fits him for his position as Spanish Instructor. His home was originally in Madrid, Spain. After completing a necessary preparatory training he entered the Presbyterian Seminary in Madrid. He was not allowed a degree under the Spanish law which prohibits private colleges to confer degrees. By the wish of the board of examiners from the Central Royal University of Madrid, Señor Maya passed an examination and received the degrees of A. B. and B. S.

After his graduation he was drafted for compulsory military service as are all young men in Spain. His required six months were served in Africa in the war with the Moors. His military duties then over, he left for Mexico, where for six and a half years he worked, and played and fought. His education had fitted him for a career as a mechanical draftsman; so for two and a half years he worked for the government in his profession in the Department of Public Work.

Then a revolution broke out, and as there was no government, there were no departments, and Señor Maya was jobless. Senior then took up the market and fought in the war against Carranza, who was assassinated by the troops of the late Ex-President Obregon. Señor Maya had by this time been promoted to the rank of second Captain in the Cavalry. Then the army, no longer needed, was disbanded, the members being given railroad fare.

Señor Maya used his fare to come to Texas. There, because he knew no English, it was impossible for him to gain a city job; so he went to the country, where he found work. This was just after the close of the World War.

He was too highly trained to spend all his life on a farm and still desiring to see the world and incidentally to learn English, he joined the Merchant Marines. Returning to the United States a year and a half later, he was given the position of interpreter for the Disarmament Conference in Washington, at one of the largest hotels there.

Then he started teaching. His first school was in Louisville, Kentucky, where he headed the Spanish department. He later went to Montana, and then came to Omaha, this being his third year here.

His hobby, he says, is sports—all and every kind. He has seen bullfights, and he played soccer ball while in Spain. He has a liking for football more than any other sport.

According to Señor Maya, the university is better this year than it has ever been. He declares that there is a feeling of unity between the faculty and the student body that has never before existed.

INQUIRING REPORTER

Question:—What will you do when you become President of the United States?

Answers:—
1. Bob Stretweiler: "I'll abolish all math and history courses in all of the colleges and universities of America."

2. June Pickard: "I'll allow no eight o'clock classes in the country's colleges and universities."

3. Dorothy Smith: "I won't ever be Geek, these horrid reporters!"

4. Juanita Johnson: "I'll abolish Friday afternoons late in our classes."

5. Donald Butler: "I will create a system of monopolized industry under governmental control."

6. Evelyn McDonald: "I'll direct the Marine Band."

7. Ellen Anne Slader: "I'll give the U. of O. half of my salary for a new campus."

8. Tom Nuckles: "I'll put all the U. of O. on my Cabinet."

LINDA MARIE BRADWAY
President of the Y. W. C. A.

The president of the Y. W. C. A. is a maid of sunny California, and she has incorporated its famed brightness into her own personality. She graduated from Central High School, and this is her third year in the College of Liberal Arts.

Her ambition is to teach in the high schools of California. She has always been interested in "Y" work. Linda was delegate to the Detroit Convention, which meets only once in four years, and also represented the University of Omaha at the Estes Park Convention last June. During her freshman year, she was an attendant to the May Queen.

Always interested in sports, last year Linda was the Secretary of the W. A. A. She has won two letters in Basketball, but football is her favorite sport. Art is her hobby, but she shines in Dramatics, and has the lead in the missionary play that is bringing fame to the U. of O., "The Color Line". In case you don't know this charming bit of femininity, just drop into the Book Store, and look for the blonde with the big brown eyes.

The Y's president is a real booster for the University; she thinks that the University of Omaha this year is the best it has ever been. There is more School Spirit than ever. Linda assures the reporter that she enjoys school more than ever before.

POLITICS AS A CAREER
FOR THE COLLEGIAN

"Politics never used to be considered a gentleman's game," says Leo A. Borah, in the December issue of College Humor. "College folk looked down on the whole business with disdain. They wouldn't give it a minute's consideration. But the attitude of the college student is changing today; he recognizes politics as a real force in the country. If the students who really feel an active interest in government will consider politics as a career and enroll in the courses intended to prepare them for it, the United States will be able to mix in world politics without fear.

It will no longer be the tenderfoot sitting in the other fellow's game. The student who would go in for politics needs to obtain first a thorough cultural education. At the same time he must learn how to put his knowledge to work, how to get out of the academic rut and talk the language of the electorate. A charlatan with a full complement of campaign tricks can beat the most brilliant theorist in the world if the theorist does not know how to put his stuff over.

"The trouble with most American college students today is that they know nothing about public affairs. In an examination in current events in a certain university, one student identified George Washington Ehrlich as a famous negro educator. Another thought Maxfield Parrish was the headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan. With that sort of knowledge, how can college students expect to do anything at politics? Fortunately not all students are like that. With the coming of professors of practical politics has come a growing interest of students in the business of government.

"Politics is not a crowded profession. It gives you a chance to use your personality and your education and at the same time to be a regular human being."

ALUMNI

Walter Huber and Hugo Carroll, both students of the University of Nebraska and former University of Omaha students, visited friends in Omaha last weekend.

On Monday they visited at school, meeting old acquaintances, visiting a few classes and last but not least eating in the cafeteria.

Walter Huber has been pledged to Delta Sigma Phi, an honorary fraternity. Scholarship, activities, and character are among the requirements of this fraternity.

AUTUMN LYRIC

The leaves have fallen all day long,
Breathing their restless, hopeless song,
High on the autumn hills' bald crown,
Deep in the valleys sitting down,
Filling many a covert glen.
On some soft, rustling slope, my dear,
Let us lie down together here,
Burying our sturdy, stained, brown feet,
Far under the blanket, crisp and sweet,
And never—never rise again.

Football: The autumnal enchantment borrowing for its make-up the ever rustling, gayly colored leaves, and scented by the unceasing smoke from countless bonfires. Then, the surging throng working its way toward the field of combat. Here a group of vivacious school girls, taking all at its face value; there one catches a passing glimpse of a lad in a raccoon coat, or hears a whispered "How ya betting, Mac?". Above the noise and confusion, the musical note of a co-ed's laughter is audible, and sometimes there is talk of the "scalpers". And reaching far down the line is the occasional flash of a lavender sweater, and often a crimson one, bringing to the eyes a carefree boy who is heedless of his whereabouts. Youth lends to the scene a lightness that only Youth can lend and makes us know that again they are predominant.

The Stadium looms out from the horizon like a giant cup, inviting all to come and taste what it has to offer. On either side is a sea of faces, and down the middle of the field a band is marching. Another band emerges, and, as they strut down the opposite side, rivalry is sensed for the first time. They halt in mid-field, and after each has played its respective Alma Mater song they file to their assigned places. As the last strains are last and dim in the air, the cheerleaders prepare to shout their defiance to the sky.

Then the whistle; the game is on. The sea of faces becomes tense and eager. The ball is kicked; the man is downed. The faces cheer; they jeer; the cheerleaders are turning hand-springs; now they are waving frantically to an already frenzied multitude. The fray is thrilling the mob; they jump to their feet. How easily they forget what has gone before or what is to come tomorrow; all that matters now is "Hold that line." A fumble—the playing is bad. Oaths are uttered, but we also feel that each true backer is pleading silently for victory. A long pass is complete, and end run and a cross tackle buck nets fifteen yards. It is a dramatic point. Among the vast assembly of human beings one might see a nervous goggled youth, chewing ardently at his fingernails, and cheering loyally between bites. Or maybe the eyes rest upon a woman unconsciously tearing her hand-kerchief. Wait, the cheering has ceased, the lithe cheerleaders are resting upon their megaphones; the mob again is tense for the game has become sad. A player is carried from the field. A mother leaps to her feet, and leans far over with searching eyes; she is anxious and hopeful—hopeful that the boy is not seriously hurt. Her countenance does not betray the fact that she is breathing a fervent prayer to God.

It is the game, the sportsmanship, the pathos, the thrill that makes the blood tingle. And we must let it get inside of us. Let our own football boys see that we are loyal to the very core, that we will fight with them as they fight. And should they lose after they have played hard and well, we must feel that they have done their best and that we have gone to defeat with them.

So, Omaha U. warriors, we are behind you. We will back you to stand against the best in the land, for we know you will fight to the end. Although you should lose we shall lose with you, and should you win we shall exalt you.

We will always stand behind you
Backing up that line.

FIGHT!

Omaha we'll praise forever

A cub reporter recently turned in an article in which Fred Peirce was designated as "Fried Peirce." We've heard of them being mistreated but never before have they been fried.

MISTAKE SOMEWHERE

"A girl should be living sympathetic, joyous and understanding" quotes an Exchange. We think that should read "few girls" instead of one.

Commercial Club Is Entertained

Dunlap and Hudson Display Wit and Humor for Their Followers.

"Scatter flowers while you may" is a most commendable sentiment, and the Commercial Club not only accepted the statement but proved it. It all happened the other day in the club meeting, and came about in this way.

Not so long ago, two weeks ago in fact, the club elected new officers. Among those was the president, Herbert Hudson. This week was his first time to preside over the club.

Dunlap Quotes Poetry

The meeting opened in the regular way, with reports being given as usual. President Hudson interspersed them with a running fire of witty comments. Finally the suspense grew too great for Dean Dunlap, and, unable to stand it any longer, he arose and made a motion to the effect that the club should give a vote of thanks to the president for so enlivening the meeting. He went on to say that too often a "flower is born to blush unseen" or is allowed to do so through the negligence of those about it.

To remedy this condition, he proposed the motion to honor Mr. Hudson. With one accord the club accepted the motion and passed the vote of thanks. To further show their appreciation, or to give him a chance to gain some more of it, they elected him cheer-leader for the College of Commerce over Mr. Hudson's distinct protest and definite refusal of the honor.

Bus Ordered

The club then made plans for the bus which carried them to Blair Saturday to witness the football game. For a time the club was rather doubtful about assuming the responsibility of the initial fee for the bus, but Mr. Dunlap came to the rescue and guaranteed that it could be met.

The club then discussed the plans for a float in the Homecoming Day parade, finally deciding that one would be planned.

Y Stag Party Great Success

The Y. M. Stag Party last week was proclaimed a great success by all who were there. The evening started out with a game of basketball, immediately followed by a game of baseball. The next game played was called, "Are you ready brother." Its results were very comical and provided much amusement.

A party couldn't be considered a success without a few fights, so pairs of boys put on the gloves for a few rounds. Foils were brought out and fencing was carried on with a great amount of enjoyment. Another interesting game was played in which two students received sound paddlings.

After the stringent exercise in the Gym, all went over to the cafeteria where refreshments of pie and coffee were served. A cheer for the cooks was led by Dr. Emery, and was well responded to by all. After the refreshments, speeches were in order, and all six faculty members who were there gave after-dinner speeches.

LAW SCHOOL NOTES

Each night of the week finds the hundred odd students of the University of Omaha diligently at work in the third floor classrooms 1307 Farnam Streets, for by now full-sized assignments are being dealt out by each professor. After the first three years, the law students get used to assignments, so by the time they reach the fourth year they accept in silence assignments of any length.

The law school has eight women students now—one senior, one sophomore, and six freshmen. When one of the boys saw the number of freshman girls, he was heard to remark, "I guess I'll quit studying law—it's getting feminine."

A representative of Corpus Juris spoke to all the law students Wednesday night, on "How to Find the Law in Corpus Juris." His lecture was illustrated by lantern-slides, demonstrating the right and wrong way to look up the law. Much benefit is derived from these lectures, and the University is fortunate in securing two or three such lecturers each year.

Y. W. C. A.

At the Y. W. C. A. meeting Tuesday, November 6, the chairmen of the different committees presented their plans for the year.

Mrs. Rene Stevens, Dean of Women and sponsor of the Y. W. opened the meeting with prayer. Madeline Shipman, publicity chairman, told how she had put notices of the meetings on the bulletin board, and had seen to it that posters were provided for special affairs.

Ellen Ann Slader introduced Mrs. Stevens, and asked her to outline the plan of the committee which has charge of securing a factory girl whom the "Y" can help by befriending her and inviting her to social functions of the organization.

Dorothy Manger, social chairman, outlined the activities that have been held so far. She invited all the girls to come to the formal banquet Tuesday, November 27, which will be held in the Crystal Room at the Rome Hotel.

Stella Adamson, room committee chairman, explained the progress on the Y. W. Room. She said that her committee had bought some attractive scarfs for the tables, and that they had chosen drapes for the windows.

Her last injunction was: "Let's each be a committee of one to see that we keep the room neat and clean, as if it were our own home."

Vivian Krissel, membership chairman, urged all who had not signed "Y" pledges and who intend to obtain the cards from any cabinet member and join. She is planning to have an impressive Recognition Service. Everyone will be included in the service and should plan to be at the meeting.

Elma Gove, program chairman, told the plans for the Tuesday morning meetings, and asked for suggestions from those present showing what would be attractive to them. She announced that the next meeting would be a joint meeting in the Conservatory when the play, "The Color Line," would be presented.

"White Collars" To Be Presented

Tap-Dancing Will Fill in Between Acts of Play.

"White Collars", a comedy in three acts, will be presented by students of the University of Omaha at the North high school auditorium on Saturday evening, December 8. This will be the first play of a series of plays which the dramatic production class hopes to present.

Mrs. Fred Baumberger is coaching the play. The cast consists of Miss Ann Slader, Natalie Dale, Dorothy Wulf, Mary Cathora, Marwood Worcester, Fred Peirce, Harold Glass, Victor Dimock and Fred Wilson. The stage and properties will be handled by Jean Ingerson, Ruth Grahame and Mildred Knutty.

Dunlap Chosen as Father-Son Poet

Many Engagements Demand Original Poetry of C. O. C. Dean.

Dean Dunlap, of the College of Commerce, has been chosen as the official Father-Son poet for the fourth consecutive year.

Friday, Nov. 9th, he spoke at the banquet of the Bellevue P. T. A. at Bellevue. Monday, the 12th, he spoke at the First Methodist Church, while Tuesday, St. Andrews Episcopal Church had him for the speaker. Friday he will talk at the Dundee Methodist Church. Nov. 19, the Florence Masonic group will hear him speak.

Four of his poems will be used in the week, but the official one follows:

It's wonderful for men to build
With hammer, drill, and forge.

A bridge to span the cataract

That rushes through the gorge;

It's wonderful to build a town

Where giant engines pull and puff

And motors spin with power;

It's wonderful to write a book,

To paint an amber sky,

And give the world those priceless

things

That never fade or die;

But far more wonderful to be

The builder of the men

Who build the cities, span the roads,

And wield the brush and pen;

To guard them through the toddling

days,

To have a Father's part,

In moulding visions, dreams and hopes

That stir the boyish heart;

To watch him scale the peak of life

And feel the throb of joy

That fills your soul when someone says

"Why Bill is that YOUR boy?"

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. meeting for Tuesday, November 6 was held in the Y. Den; in spite of the confusion created by the voters in the gym, Reverend Albert B. Schwerdtfeger, Associate Pastor of the Kountz Memorial Church, was the speaker. He chose to tell of his missionary experiences in India where he and his companions spent years among the natives in the east and south around the Bay of Bengal.

It was during the World War that about 20,000 people in one Section of the country were left without a missionary leader, and he was sent there. It was his duty to look after the people in a territory of 7500 square miles. On going into this country he was beset by many difficulties, such as a great number of different dialects, the cast system, and the jungle with its wild beasts.

His expedition brought the first automobile into the country, and the natives on examining it concluded that its hood housed the evil spirits, which the White Gods, as they were termed, had captured. He mentioned the atmosphere of mystery in the Orient, that mystery which the people of this country cannot fathom.

"Any one who failed to attend that meeting missed a worth while talk," said Don Butler, President; so come to the future meetings, as very interesting programs are being planned."

Dr. Emery has been, like the weather, almost snowed under this last week. On Wednesday evening he attended a formal reception at the Fontenelle Hotel honoring Woodward Jeffers, Vice-President of the Union Pacific System, sponsored by the Greater Omaha Association. Thursday he gave the address at the Father and Son banquet of the Trinity Lutheran Church. He was the guest of William L. Shearer, Board member, on Saturday, at a formal dinner. Last night he gave the address at the P. T. A. of Abraham Lincoln high school in Council Bluffs. Tonight he will be the speaker at the Father and Son banquet given by the First Congregational Church.

Dr. Emery recently had an important visitor in the person of Mrs. Cole, of the Omaha Women's Club.

She discussed the Scholarships of the university with Dr. Emery.

Miss Luella Allan called on Dr. Emery and Professor Logan last week.

As a part of the Armistice day program at the Kountz Memorial Church, Sunday night, A. J. Dunlap, Dean of the College of Commerce and Finance, gave an extemporaneous speech. Original bits of poetry were well received.

HOMECOMING FOR OMAHA GRADUATES

The next date is the date. A pep meeting will be held in the gym at 10 o'clock. The student body will greet the alumni, and the alumni will present a speaker. 11:30 a parade, including the band and about eight floats representing the activities of the university, will march through the business district of Omaha with a police escort. The parade will form at 24th and Pratt.

At 3 o'clock Omaha will meet Peru on the U. of O. football field. Organized cheers are being planned by the pep squad for this event. The band will have thirty members at this game.

Barbecue Dinner

A barbecue dinner will be given at 6 o'clock at the university campus. A Homecoming tag will admit you to a real dinner served in the gym, according to Mr. Hammer.

At 7 o'clock the social hour is scheduled to start. At 8, an orchestra will play; the male quartet will sing, and the gym class will give a demonstration.

Sophomore Dance

The Sophomore dance will be given in the gym at 9 o'clock, for the students, alumni, faculty, and friends. A special dance orchestra has been engaged and a good time is promised for everyone.

Richard Dunham asks that all students who wish to put on an individual act give him their names. Clown acts are needed. All cars that may be used for floats are wanted. Dunham also asks that the type of float be one that represents college activities.

The yell leaders ask the student body to help them in leading the cheers at the game. Drills and formations will be practiced soon.

WITH THE FACULTY

Dr. Emery has been, like the weather, almost snowed under this last week. On Wednesday evening he attended a formal reception at the Fontenelle Hotel honoring Woodward Jeffers, Vice-President of the Union Pacific System, sponsored by the Greater Omaha Association. Thursday he gave the address at the Father and Son banquet of the Trinity Lutheran Church. He was the guest of William L. Shearer, Board member, on Saturday, at a formal dinner. Last night he gave the address at the P. T. A. of Abraham Lincoln high school in Council Bluffs. Tonight he will be the speaker at the Father and Son banquet given by the First Congregational Church.

Dr. Emery recently had an important visitor in the person of Mrs. Cole, of the Omaha Women's Club. She discussed the Scholarships of the university with Dr. Emery.

Other discussions had to do with pins for the club members and the advisability of securing patrons for the club and the department.

Art students have made University of Omaha post cards which are for sale to anyone. These cards are block prints, slightly tinted, showing the entrance to the University.

Omaha Defeats Blair By Score of 20 to 0

(Continued from Page 1) over the line for the touchdown that was the start of the remaining two. Cool as a cucumber, Bolen kicked the extra point for goal and the score was 7 to 0. He was so anxious to make the kick good that the ball cleared the goal post with loads of room to spare and embedded itself in the tall stalks of some neighboring farmer's cornfield. Minutes passed before the oval was finally retrieved, but at last the referee climbed over the fence with the coveted ball. The football was more like a basketball in plumpness than a football and this accounted some for the many fumbles of the Omaha team. Proof of this is seen in the second half when one of Omaha's practice balls was used, and there was not one fumble.

Hubka Does Duty

All of the Omaha fellows knew that they were in for a dressing down at the half, and were waiting to take what they had coming. They got it, and plenty, but, needless to say, they all took it and liked it and remembered it, judging from their different attitude in the second half.

In the third quarter after the line had met a stone wall, Roberts again came to the rescue. Matthews had just reeled off a sensational 42-yard sprint to put the ball on the 20-yard line. Roberts on a triple-pass play came dashing around into the back-field, took the ball, and caught the Danes napping for a fifteen yard again. Bolen scored a few moments later on a delayed line, buck through a hole as big as a house. Bolen place-kicked for the extra point.

Shoestring Successful

The Danes were not down as yet, but fought on all the harder. They had not reckoned with that man Roberts. On good principle that every football man should remember is that they should always count the men on the other team before play is resumed. This Dana failed to do, and the result was that Roberts snagged a pass of 15 yards from Huff on a shoestring play, and raced fifteen more to place the ball on the ten yard line. On another trick play behind, Roberts garnered five more yards, and Bolen again took the ball and Fullback Jensen.

SPORTITORIAL

With the Dana game a thing of the past, everyone should start pointing at the biggest game of the season—the one with Peru on Homecoming Day. It is not going to be any snap, if anyone should ask you.

Peru was last year's state champion, and is already pointing toward another title in the state loop. This is Omaha's chance to retaliate for the awful rinnings that they have sustained in the past. It will be sweet revenge for Omaha owing to the fact that there will be present at the game some of the old alumni who have either played against this team or who have rooted for Omaha in their defeats and victories.

In picking a team like this for Homecoming Day, the athletic administration has given the fellows an incentive that will spur them on to victory. They know that if they fall down they will have many eyes watching them, but if they win they will have honor and praise showered upon them. This is only begging the question because we are not going to lose. We may be going into that game as the under-dog, but when that final whistle blows we are still going to be able to see that old red and black out there on the field with the score in Omaha's favor.

But wait, how is all this going to be accomplished? It is going to be attempted by some by staying away from that gridiron. Others are going to help accomplish the superhuman task by showing up at the old field with a ten days' supply of wind and an expectation to see a hundred thrills before the game is over.

Alumni! Let's see that old Omaha spirit that has put the old school over in the past. Let's get out and boost. It doesn't take much time to come to that game with Peru and you will get a lot of help out of it. Be there! Fight with the team! Cheer with the students! Get hot, gang; LET'S GO.

Opportunity knocks but once, according to tradition. Opportunity is knocking at the door of Omaha University's football fame, and it is up to us not to keep him waiting.

St. Louis played Creighton on Creighton's field, and defeated them by a score of 16 to 6. Then Saint Louis played Peru on their own field, and held them to a tie of 6 to 6. If Omaha U., when we play Peru on Homecoming Day, November 11th, can defeat them, we can hold them to a tie, we will be placed in Creighton's

It will be a great step forward in our effort to gain football fame if we can defeat them. With the spirit of Homecoming Day running rampant, and the football team doing their best for their school, our chances are of the best. So let's

Strong Schedule Is the Forecast For Basketball

Athletic Board Arranges Tilts With Some Outstate Colleges

At a recent meeting of the Athletic Board, plans were discussed for the basketball season. The schedule is to be a good strong one. As Mr. Dunlap said, "A kite will rise against a wind, not with it. Our football team has done the work it has because of the pressure behind it—the strong teams it has met and the work piled on it by Hubka and Weir. The same tactics will be used in the basketball season."

Letters are being exchanged with about fifty colleges and universities for the purpose of arranging this schedule. Some of the prospective opponents on the basketball floors are: Still College, at Des Moines, Wesleyan, Maryville, Hastings, Peru, and Wayne.

over. The placekick was blocked by Hansen of Dana.

When the final whistle blew Omaha was on its way to another touchdown, with O'Hanlon and Campbell taking the ball in turn down the field. If the game had lasted twenty or thirty seconds more there would have been another score as Campbell was racing on his way to the goal line, with the whole Dana team at his heels. He was brought down on the five yard line, where the game ended.

Omaha played almost the full game with its two regular halfbacks on bench, but did not really need them as the other two played a hang-up game that would have been hard to beat. Matthews reeled off most of the yardage for Omaha, while Edwards shone on defense, with Barber a stone wall at center. Roberts was the outstanding star of the game at all times and it probably would have been a sorry day for Omaha if this sticky fingered end had been out of the game with injuries.

The whole Dana team played as good football as they could, the outstanding stars being Center Beckman and Fullback Jensen.

Soph. Gives Ideas About Homecoming Day Feets-brawl

The Sophomores are planning bigger and better things for the night of Homecoming. As a fitting end, of the day, they are planning to give a dance for the entire school and for the visiting team in the gymnasium. Pepper Pettigrew's New Night Club has been engaged to furnish hot syncopation for the "feets-brawlers."

Drag out the old dancing slippers; put "Poulter's Pedic Powder For Faulty Feet" in them if necessary; call up the best girl and tell her to powder her nose (Not with the above mentioned powder though! Ye gods, no!), and get going! Pay your fraternity brother the two bits you owe him, and ask him for a haul. Or, if necessary, carry out the ashes and maybe the paternal ancestor will get big-hearted. Street car, roller-skates, bicycle, "Liz", or Rolls-Rough—any old way.

Come one, come all; and I will see you, brother and sister brawler, at the Soph's "Feets-brawl".

FIRST BASKETBALL INJURY

Miss Jean Ingersoll, popular sophomore, was injured in basketball practice on Friday. In the course of the play Corinne Jensen's elbow connected with Jean's eye. Coach Min Petersen took Jean to the Evangelical Covenant Hospital, where two stitches were taken in her forehead just above the eye. Jean will not stop playing basketball and will report for practice tonight.

Oval Pickups

What is this that we hear of our divinity student juggling dishes after the game at Dana?

Joe Weir must be watched after this, judging from the tactics that he employs to change seats next to the good looking girls in the busses. What you didn't? Well who did (turn on the lights then)?

Campbell came back true to form in the Dana game, and got hot.

We will all have to take off our hats to Roberts. He was there at all times with those ready fingers of his snagging passes, and on the other hand snagging wayward Dana men and bringing them to earth.

"Handsome" Boehler got his physiognomy all messed up in the first half, but that didn't stop him from climbing all over the other team in the second half.

"Chuck" Matthews looked good in there also. He hasn't seen much action so far this year but certainly showed that he was good and kept acomin'.

"Gill" Edwards was a bearcat on defense, and it was his all perceiving eye that figured out many of the Dana plays before they got started. He is a little light, but what he lacks in weight he makes up for in fight.

"Tub" Bolen surely knocks 'em dead. Many a time when he got up from the ground after one of his record making lunges there were two or three Danes that had a hard time to come out of it.

"Lighthorse" O'Hanlon, although only in the game for a few minutes, was the same old powerhouse that he has been in the past games.

"Johnie" Barber played that good old hang-up game of his. Under every play on the offense and a stone-wall on defense he set an example for his team that they all lived up to in the second half.

"Hake" Quisenberry came out of his slugs in the second quarter, and started the Dana right and left. What is this we hear about that conversation with the Dana knowers?

"Silver" McNamee was all there. If you don't believe it, take a look at the fellow that he played against. They look like they had gone through a treadmill with a couple of tons raw on the other end.

Hutchinson Accepted By Student Council

Discuss Athletic Election—Name For Team—Jenkins' Field.

The Student Council met Nov. 8 at a regular meeting in Room 5 at ten o'clock. The business of counting the ballots of the Athletic Board Election was taken up first. The final count stood with Duane Hutchinson having 124 and Frederick Pearce, 97.

The possible names suggested for the team name of the university favored the animal class principally. There were ten different names suggested which included nearly everything from "Bunnies" to "Tigers." The continuance of the name of Cardinals was upheld by fifteen students, and the name of "Bison" was favored by six students. The changing of the "Cardinals" to the "Cardinal Team" was also mentioned.

It was also suggested that the Saratoga football field be renamed "Jenkins Field" in honor of Dr. Daniel E. Jenkins.

POWERFUL PLAYERS PICK POWDER-PUFF

Lawk-a-merry-me, what can this world be coming to when football players borrow charming co-ed's compact? It sounds like effeminate men are coming to be the fashion. And furthermore, if you don't believe it, read on for yourself.

One pleasant day last week, so the story runs, a football man (guess who) stood talking to three charming young ladies (Yes, Boys, they were Pi-O's, if you must know). As in the course of the conversation, this certain football player asked, "Has anyone a compact?" each young lady immediately produced her own and proffered it to said player.

And, he took it! Absolutely, without doubt, and all the rest of the expressions. Such is the story of the Ferocious Football man and the Compact.

"Bricktop" Arthur got his chance to make good and certainly did. It looks like a regular berth on the end position for him. He towers head and shoulders above the rest of the teams, and they almost have to climb his frame to knock a pass out of his hands.

Frank Threadgill, although having been sick all week previous to the Dana game, went into the game just the same and gave them fight for fight.

"General" Huff, not being content with running the team to the best of his ability, took matters into his own hands and reeled off some yardage himself. You certainly played a good game, and we are proud to have you with us.

"Heavy" Johnson looked good in the game for the short time that he was in there. With a little bit more experience he ought to see some more service in the future games.

"Eagle Eye" Kahn showed to good advantage on the line, and it was mostly through his play at times that the large holes were opened up.

"Monty" Montgomery didn't have much of a chance at the passes but was good on defense.

"Tommy" Utterback filled into Barber's hole, and played as nice a game as could be wished for.

"Ray" Fraley did his bit also, and plowed away the Dana line as though they were just paper.

"Bill" Woods, with his weight, proved to be a big factor in the Cardinal line, and stopped many of Dana's threats.

"Ace" McNamee got a chance at the Dana backs, and stopped them dead. With more weight he ought to go better.

"Moose" Struckmeyer didn't get a chance to do much, but what he did he did well.

FREDDY TELLS ABOUT JIM!

"Have you met Jim?"—"Jim who?"—"Why, Jimnasium, of course. He is the general utility man around the university and serves all purposes. He surely is one busy man too. First, the girls cavort hither and thither and you doing their daily dozen on his fair surface. Then the stronger sex so ably illustrate their superiority by pushing an eraser around the floor with sticks under the guise of playing hockey. Ambitious basketball flings mark up his smooth face, and howl in his ears, "Jack! Jack! Heave that ball!" Then we mustn't forget the "basket-balletters". I think that Jim is a bit partial to them. At least the doors are always locked when they are practicing. Perhaps it is just because he likes peace and quiet. Who will guess with me? He is well taken care of though, despite all hard work. Aden and Co. are the official barbers and see to it that his adorable "itty-bitty" face is powdered and polished every day. Al is reported to be an expert along that line; so have no fear.

Freddy.

Basketball Season Opens for Girls

Coach Petersen Anticipates Another Active and Full Season

The Women of the University have begun their basketball season. Practices are held every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday in the gym at four o'clock. So far, there has been much enthusiasm shown by the members of the squad.

Coach Petersen is very eager that the Girl's Team should be as good as or better than the team of last year. Last year, as you know, the team won every game but one on the schedule. With so much new material to choose from and with so many veterans back, the prospects are excellent for winning every game this year.

As a nucleus for the new squad, Corinne Jensen and Leah Daubenheyer are forwards from last year and experienced guards are Happy Cathers, Madeline Shipman, and Ellen Anne Slader.

Among promising freshmen trying out are Katherine Cook, Edith Grobman, Marion Terry, and Ruth Kennedy.

Gym Monopolized by Girls' Basketball

What is this terrible racket in the gym? How many thousand people are in there to cause such a commotion? Oh, folks, it is merely the co-eds practicing basketball. From all sides they come, dressed in much and in little.

Who is this galloping across the floor after an elusive basketball? Why, it's Ruth Kennedy—Ah! She captured it—Scream, scream, scream from her sister players as they jump up and down in glee.

Why there are Marjorie Lyle, Katherine Cook, and Madeline Shipman over there trying out the huddle system. Oh! My mistake, they are fighting!

—And here is Jensen racing back and forth to the basket. She never misses!

What does Terry mean by those cute little hop, skip, and jump steps she is taking?

And Daubenheyer has some new shoes! Now everybody look out.

"Now bounce pass only", shouts Coach Min, and Tow, Cathers, Bors and Ingersoll immediately do their stuff.

And then to our dismay in walk about half of the gym class, indignantly exclaiming, "Where is my gym suit?" And the team disappears to quickly return the borrowed togs and now the practice is over for another day.

Isn't it great to be a basketball player?

"HOW HARD IS FOOT- BALL?" ASKS COACH

"Was the old game harder on the players?" asks Bob Zupke of Illinois in his article, How Hard is Football? appearing in the December College Humor. "From everything I have heard about it from old-time coaches and players, there is no doubt but that it was. Can you imagine a football team of today packing up its equipment and gayly starting off on a trip to play six games in eight days? It hardly seems possible that this ever could have happened, yet back in 1892 Illinois' squad actually played this schedule. This was not a steady diet, but I mention it to show that they did play longer, more arduous schedules in the olden days. Today the number of games played during a season is limited to eight, with rare exceptions.

"Football is not as hard today because the coaches have more experience than their predecessors. A coach, first of all, is a pedagogue. He is a good coach because he has the ability to judge the amount of work and rest his players require, rather than because he is adept in dividing plays and drilling his players in the fundamentals of the game.

He knows better than to let his players batter each other into insensibility; his goal is not to develop idiots. He knows that all of the energy of his players must not be used up by muscle that some must be left for the brain. Football today is easier on the players; the practice hours are shorter, and shorter hours reduce the possibility of mental and physical fatigue.

"Don't think of football as recreation or exercise," Zupke continues. "It is only the old who talk about such things. In football youth finds the safety valve for his spirit. Football is more than a game; it is not a physical expression, although it is expressed physically. It is a symbol of sportsmanship and it is verile drama."

Combustion Was Cause of Odors

"Up with the windows," the warty which sounded throughout the university when the cold weather first started is now obsolete. The gas which penetrated every corner of the classrooms and caused the cry was caused by spontaneous combustion in the winter's supply of coal, according to Mr. A. W. Ward, the janitor. At present about a half of a ton of coal is all that is left out of the first supply. The spontaneous combustion is under control and pure air again circulates in the classrooms.
